UNIVERSITY OF CAMBRIDGE LANGUAGE CENTRE

Language Teacher: Korean

Hourly Paid (£40.92 per hour)

We are recruiting for an enthusiastic language teacher with a proven track record of teaching Korean, preferably in a UK Higher Education environment. Attracting some 2,000 students annually, the Cambridge University Language Programmes (CULP) offer language training to all members of the University through a mixture of open access and special purpose courses. Learner profiles include a range of undergraduate and graduate students as well as staff of the University, covering a wide variety of nationalities and mother tongues. Our teaching and learning methodology blends face-to-face contact with online learning.

The role includes developing a syllabus, assessment tools, teaching in a blended-learning mode, marking/examining and associated administration. Our language teachers are expected to contribute to the maintenance and enhancement of the Language Centre's reputation for excellence in teaching and learning.

We currently plan to offer one Basic level course during our Michaelmas and Lent terms (15 x 2 hrs sessions over 15 weeks, October to March), running in late afternoon/evening slots (to be confirmed during the enrolment period). You will be educated to first degree level, preferably in languages and/or applied linguistics, and hold a recognized qualification in teaching Korean as a foreign language or have engagement in professional development within their language teaching experience. You will be engaged on a fixed-term Worker basis, subject to satisfactory enrolments on the course offered.

Informal enquiries are welcomed by Mr Nebojša Radić, CULP Director, by email at nr236@cam.ac.uk or phone (01223 335051).

To apply please send your CV and a covering letter to recruitment@langcen.cam.ac.uk along with details of two employer references we could approach.

Closing Date: 23 April 2018.
